An aerial photograph of the Hazor archaeological site. The central focus is the Solomon's Gate, a large, multi-tiered stone structure with a central opening. To the left of the gate, there are several large, dark green trees and a dirt path. To the right, there are more ruins, including a circular structure and a large, rectangular building. The ground is dry and dusty, with some sparse vegetation. In the bottom right corner, there are several large, dark, irregular shapes that appear to be covered in debris or are part of the ruins. The overall scene is a mix of ancient stone structures and modern archaeological site management.

A photograph of a sunset over the Sea of Galilee. The sun is a bright, glowing orb in the center of the horizon, casting a long, shimmering golden path of light across the dark water. The sky is filled with soft, wispy clouds that catch the low light of the setting sun, creating a palette of warm oranges, yellows, and pale blues. In the foreground, the dark silhouette of a hillside with some sparse vegetation is visible on the left side.
